Dear Friends & Neighbors,

I am delighted to announce that the Science Museum of Long Island will be hosting its 2nd annual Live at Five Outdoor Concert Series! Starting on May 26th through August 25th. Featuring a line-up of diverse bands performing on the Nassau County Mobile Sound Stage, local food trucks and Greenport Brewery Beer and Wine served by the Bubbly Bar trailer, science activities for the kids, guided walks around our nature preserve. Guests are invited to bring a blanket and chairs as they listen to live music, eat dinner, watch the sunset over Manhasset Bay and enjoy a night of family fun with entertainment for all ages.

When the committee first approached me last year with the idea of hosting an outdoor concert series at the Science Museum, I was very skeptical that we had the recourse to pull it off with a small staff of only four and an operating budget that had gone from very small to miniscule because of the pandemic. Thankfully, our very dynamic, persuasive, and multi-talented committee convinced me it could be done, and I have never been so happy to be so wrong about anything in my life.

The events last year were successful beyond my wildest dreams with almost every event sold out with an attendance of 200 – 500 people at each event. When our parking lot was at capacity, people found a way to get there – one family even kayak across Manhasset Bay to attend. And while it was a tremendous amount of work for me, the committee, and countless volunteers – watching people of all ages having so much fun together gave me such an immense feeling of joy after a year of so much isolation, uncertainty, and sadness.

Even with the popularity and success of last year, Live at Five would not have been possible without the support of our generous sponsors. Proceeds from the concert series will be allocated to continuing the much needed and long overdue exterior restoration of the historic house and property, including upgrading our beloved animal habitats. As well as, to the enhancement and expansion of SMLI’s educational programming.

Since 1964, SMLI has been a nonprofit organization committed to fostering and nurturing children’s interest in science by providing quality, hands-on, educational programming that is fun, engaging, and inspires lifelong interest in science and conservation. We understand the importance of investing in our future and if the past few years have taught us anything - it is that our fate rests in the tiny hands of our future scientists. We look forward to once again being able to host these amazing community events and hope you will join us in supporting this endeavor by becoming a sponsor.

Sincerely,

Kristen Laird
